INTRODUCTION

The Nancy (Carter) Richardson Papers, 1590-1990, are centered on Nancy (Carter) Richardson (1920-), teacher and genealogist, born originally in Tulsa, Oklahoma to parents from Elkton (Giles County), Tennessee. The Nancy (Carter) Richardson Papers were donated to the Tennessee State Library and Archives by Mrs. Richardson. At time of donation, Mrs. Richardson resided in West Hartford, Connecticut.

The materials in this collection measure 1.68 cubic feet. There are no restrictions on the materials.

Single photocopies of unpublished writings in the Nancy (Carter) Richardson Papers may be made for purposes of scholarly research.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Nancy (Carter) Richardson Papers, 1590-1990, containing approximately 1,200 items, span the period 1590-1990. The collection is composed of accounts, advertisements, an announcement, applications, associations, institutions, etc., automobile records, cemeteries, census records, certificates, church records, clippings, correspondence, County Clerk's records, court records, diaries, memoirs, etc., estate papers, financial records, genealogical data, invitations, programs, etc., land records, legal records, licenses, maps, marriage records, military records, notes, obituaries, pensions, photographs, drawings, etc., poetry, publications, recipes, resolutions, Revolutionary War records, school records, sketches, state records, and writings.

The bulk of the collection is comprised of genealogical data, thoroughly compiled by educator and lifetime family researcher, Nancy Louise (Carter) Richardson, born in Tulsa, Oklahoma in 1920. Richardson attended Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts and graduated in 1949. She then went on to complete requirements to obtain a master's degree in child study and education. In addition, Mrs. Richardson continued for two more years of graduate studies at Columbia University. Following her University studies, Mrs. Richardson pursued a career in teaching.

The genealogical data within the collection consists of information pertaining to several of the paternal and maternal family lines of Mrs. Richardson. Among the family histories found in the collection are Baugh, Bowers, Brown, Carter, De Jarnette, Glaze, Hamblen, McWilliams, Paine, Perkins, Robertson, Scruggs, Simpson, Waddy, and Wishart. A complete list of surnames, along with collateral lines, may be found within the Container List.

Within the collection are several postcards (copies) and a letter (original) written by the father of Mrs. Richardson, Edward Milton Carter (1892-1962), during his World War I military service with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Interspersed throughout the collection are other items pertaining to Edward Milton Carter. Also included within the correspondence is a letter from Edward Dillon Bowers dated 1863, which concerns the United States Civil War (1861-1865.) There also exists interesting correspondence dating back to the 1830s and 1850s.

Among the diaries, memoirs, etc. is a compilation of memoirs by Dr. Ben Carter (1792-1865) and Benjamin Franklin Carter (1828-fl.1904). The latter Carter includes within his work a defensive and somewhat repugnant explanation for the creation of the Ku Klux Klan in Pulaski, Tennessee.

Within the photographs, drawings, etc. section of the collection are several black and white photos of headstones from the Simpson Family Cemetery in Giles County, Tennessee.

The Nancy (Carter) Richardson Papers also contain numerous land records (grants, deeds, etc.), including typewritten copies of two land grants from King George II to Daniel Hamlin, Sr. in 1793 and 1745. Also included is a land grant from the State of Tennessee, signed by then-Governor Andrew Johnson to George Bowers. The legal records within the collection are predominated by numerous wills.

Among the clippings in the collection is a humorous magazine article that presents excerpts of recollections from former President Harry S. Truman on who he considered the eight best and eight worst American Presidents. There is also an article on one of Mrs. Richardson's descendants – Aaron V. Brown, U.S. Representative (1839-1845), Eleventh Governor of Tennessee (1835-1847), and U.S. Postmaster General (1857-1859).

The historical sketches on Elkton, Tennessee and Giles County give insight into the region's history and of its founding mothers and fathers, serving quite an informative role to the collection as a whole.

For intriguing anecdotes and down-home stories surrounding the childhood of Nancy (Carter) Richardson and her family, see the publication entitled Giles Heirloom: Historic Recipes and Places (Box 4, folder 35).

The Nancy (Carter) Richardson Papers serve as a successful complement to the vast genealogical holdings within the Tennessee State Library and Archives.
